OBJECTIVE

I am a patient-focused internal medicine resident undergoing comprehensive training to deliver top-tier patient care in diverse settings, encompassing both ambulatory and inpatient care. My professional goal is to secure a hospitalist position, enabling me to administer evidence-based medical care to individuals grappling with acute and chronic medical conditions.

My unique background, having been born and raised in India, completing medical school in the Caribbean, and pursuing residency in the United States, has equipped me with exceptional adaptability and efficiency in multicultural and diverse healthcare environments. I bring to the table robust leadership capabilities, currently serving as the chief resident for the internal medicine program. As I look ahead, I am driven by the desire to evolve personally, professionally, and as a leader in the healthcare realm. I am eager to find an environment that fosters my growth and development, enabling me to continue making meaningful contributions as a physician and a leader.
